FINISHES CHARACTERISTICS AND MAINTENANCE

FINISHES

When you purchase a CIFIAL product you know that it is the result of a refined manufacturing process, which results in a high quality product. CIFIAL products give you the satisfaction of keeping their initial appearance for many years, provided they are properly cared for.

Chrome or Nickel Coatings

The electrolytic coatings are processed by CIFIAL at its modern automatic facility, supported by effluent treatment plants and benefiting from over 40 years of experience. The galvanic electroplating process gives the substrate greater resistance to corrosion by plating it with nickel and chromium at thicknesses greater than 7.5 microns and 0.25 microns, respectively, for chrome finishes. It is essential for the final quality of the product that the surfaces to be coated are correctly prepared before the plating operation. This preparation is performed at CIFIAL by grinding machines and CNC polishing machines. Whenever necessary, manual intervention is undertaken to give the final customisation that characterises CIFIAL products.

Organic coatings

Lacquered and rustic: These coatings are sensitive due to their nature. Lacquered coatings have a coat of powdered lacquer or paint with thicknesses greater than 40 microns. Rustic or living coatings have an aged metallic surface that changes over its lifetime and according to use, meaning it acquires a unique nature.

PVD surfaces

CIFIAL has developed a coating technology based on the most advanced PVD (Physical Vapour Deposition) technology, in which CIFIAL was a pioneer. PVD significantly improves the surface hardness and abrasion resistance characteristics. This coating substantially increases corrosion resistance compared to a traditional electrolytic coating process without PVD (Corrodokote, Acetic Saline Fog and Cass Tests). The excellent characteristics of this coating give it high resistance to deterioration from domestic chemical agents; high resistance to corrosion by atmospheric agents and greater hardness, which makes it more resistant to wear. This coating is highly resistant to scratches, allowing it to keep its appearance unchanged and thus meet the highest consumer expectations and the most demanding applications. PVD is an environmentally-friendly technology, not generating any kind of effluent.

MAINTENANCE

Taps: We recommend cleaning only with soap and water, or neutral detergents, for all types of finishes. Never use products containing hydrochloric acid, bleaches, paint or cement removers, products containing alcohol, ether, acetone or other solvents, or any other inappropriate products, including toothpaste. Avoid the use of abrasive pads or sponges. Only flannels, soft cloths or absorbent cleaning paper must be used to dry the product. Applying a little Vaseline or wax will help maintain the gloss of shiny metal surfaces.

Sanitaryware: Do not force the closing movement of toilet seats with soft close hinges and support the closing movement of toilet seats with normal hinges. Do not stand on top of the toilet seat. Do not stand on top of the bidet. Do not drop objects that could damage the washbasin surface. Regularly clean, at least twice a year, the impurities that accumulate in the seals and in the filters of the flushing mechanisms and water inlet taps. Ceramic sanitaryware should not be cleaned with abrasive cleaning products that may scratch or damage the glazed surface. Do not use corrosive or abrasive cleaning products on toilet seats and other plastic or metallic materials that form part of your product.
